

Eyes on the Sky

Printable reference guide, courtesy of eyesonthesky.com

The lowercase Greek alphabet

$\alpha$	—	alpha	$\nu$	—	nu
$\beta$	—	beta	$\xi$	—	xi
$\gamma$	—	gamma	$\circ$	—	omicron
$\delta$	—	delta	$\pi$	—	pi
$\varepsilon$	—	epsilon	$\rho$	—	rho
$\zeta$	—	zeta	$\sigma$	—	sigma
$\eta$	—	eta	$\tau$	—	tau
$\vartheta$	—	theta	$\upsilon$	—	upsilon
$\iota$	—	iota	$\varphi$	—	phi
$\kappa$	—	kappa	$\chi$	—	chi
$\lambda$	—	lambda	$\psi$	—	psi
$\mu$	—	mu	$\omega$	—	omega

A handy reference chart to help users of star charts know which star they are looking at / trying to find, as many star charts use the lowercase Greek alphabet to indicate the brightest 24 stars in most constellations.

For free star charts, weekly night sky guides and other beginner astronomy information, please visit www.eyesonthesky.com